

DUMFRIES HOUSE

The image shows the upper portion of a classical building facade. The central focus is a large, ornate stone pediment. At the top center of the pediment is a coat of arms featuring a shield with a cross, supported by two lions. Below the shield is a banner with the words 'GOD' and 'GRACE'. Flanking this central coat of arms are two smaller crests, each topped with a crown and surrounded by decorative scrollwork. The entire scene is set against a clear blue sky.

DUMFRIES HOUSE

Dumfries House has been described as a national treasure that epitomises what we imagine an 18th century classical stately home to be. Commissioned by the 5th Earl of Dumfries House, the House was designed and built by Robert and John Adam and was handed over to its new owner in 1759. On completion, the Earl of Dumfries embarked on a frantic shopping spree to ensure that his home was furnished in the most fashionable and comfortable way possible; no expense was spared. Furnishings for the principal apartments were ordered from the workshop of the renowned Thomas Chippendale in London and from three cabinet makers in Edinburgh. Most of these pieces remain in Dumfries House today, many in their original setting, making the collection a world leader in terms of 18th century furniture.

In 2007, HRH The Prince of Wales was made aware of the imminent sale of the House and its contents and made the decision to intervene to save this significant piece of heritage for the nation. A charity, The Great Steward of Scotland's Dumfries House Trust, was formed to oversee and manage the House and its 2,000 acres of estate. In 2018, The Prince's Foundation was created through the merger of The Dumfries House Trust with three of the Prince's other charities. HRH The Prince of Wales is President of The Prince's Foundation, a major charity employing almost 300 people working across the UK and overseas. Dumfries House is the charity's Headquarters and is the home for many of its initiatives.

Throughout the last decade, the charity has undertaken an extensive and ambitious programme of conservation, restoration and development. This has returned the House and its collection to its former glory. An even greater amount of development work has been undertaken on the estate through the creation of magnificent gardens, woodland walks and many other facilities.

With a wide array of accommodation and facilities not only within Dumfries House but also throughout the rest of the estate, we are able to accommodate every style of business or corporate event

C O R P O R A T E E V E N T S & C O N F E R E N C I N G A T D U M F R I E S H O U S E

Be it a discreet Board or Executive gathering, a full company conference, staff training sessions, product launches or simply entertaining clients or associated partners, we have the accommodation, resources and a very experienced Events Team that enables us to meet all of your needs. Our Events Manager can work directly with you, the client, or with your company's own events team to plan and execute your event, be it a day session lasting a few hours or a residential affair lasting several days. Our own in-house IT department will provide all of the technical support required to ensure that your event and your delegates can operate effectively.

Our team has worked with a wide variety of clients across the full gambit of industry sectors within the UK and internationally. A sign of success for the Events and Hospitality Team is when corporate clients return each year – we have many. With regard to hospitality, we can provide you with the ultimate fine dining experience in one of our elegant dining rooms right through to a casual barbeque around a camp fire!

For residential corporate events, Dumfries House Lodge, which sits some 500m from Dumfries House, offers 26 very stylish double bedrooms. However, we have established close working partnerships with some very carefully chosen hotels within a short distance of Dumfries House who are able to offer us additional accommodation for larger events should this be

Impressing your guests in some of Dumfries House's most

SPECTACULAR & BEAUTIFUL SPACES

THE TAPESTRY ROOM

So called since it houses four exquisite Flemish tapestries, each on a different classical- mythical theme, this American walnut-panelled room exudes elegance and warmth. Situated on the principal floor, the Tapestry Room sits within the west wing of the main, central part of the House, and is accessed through the painstakingly restored and glorious Pewter Corridor. A Steinway baby grand piano is housed here, making it the perfect space for a musical soiree or any kind of live performance. This is one of the largest rooms in the House, unlike any other and has a real salon feel to it.

THE PAVILION

This is a grand space, ideal for larger scale events and appended to the rear of the east wing of the House. With its glass frontage, the Pavilion presents unparalleled views across open countryside across the north of the estate. Access to the Pavilion is through the ground floor of the House. It is a fantastically adaptable space and can be configured to suit the needs of any event. The walls of the Pavilion are bedecked with gilded mirrors and adorned with elegant ornamentation. It has its own permanent bar area. All other services are accessed via the main House.

THE YELLOW DRAWING ROOM

Sometimes referred to as the Family Parlour or the North Drawing Room, this room would have formed part of a three-roomed apartment within the House (parlour, study, bedroom) for the Earl of Dumfries. The clue is in the name, as they say, and there is no mistaking where the name originates from once you enter. The exhilarating yellow damask on the restored Chippendale elbow chairs, Alexander Peter sofa and drapes from Chippendale pelmets lift this north facing room to new heights. This drawing room also houses a fully restored Kirkwood Harpsichord, one of the last pieces in the collection to be restored.

THE LIBRARY

This room, situated on the ground floor of the west wing, is a bit of hidden gem as it is not included the public tour of the House. A room lined with books and richly furnished, it is an incredibly welcoming space used for private meetings and private hospitality events. Originally designed to be a Turkish bath, the signs of that intention are still there for those with a keen eye.

THE ENTRANCE HALL

The main Entrance Hall sitting at the top of the front steps is the central point of the entire House, the whole idea of the original design being to impress the visitor. We are immediately presented with the Earl of Dumfries's credentials; the repeated presentation of his family emblem, a baby dragon or wyvern, and the Noble Order of the Thistle. All of the important rooms on the principal floor are entered from the Entrance Hall.

FROM THE INTIMATE TO THE EPIC

THE GREAT STEWARDS' DINING ROOM

Aptly renamed using one of His Royal Highness's Scottish titles, The Great Steward of Scotland, this room is the perfect setting for a more formal event or fine dining experience. It has over recent years established itself as the main, formal dining room of the House. Sitting on the principal floor at the extreme east end of the House, it is similar in size to the Tapestry Room but quite different in atmosphere. With walls lined in a deep red fabric and adorned with portraiture and pieces from the collection, it is memorable in every way without being intimidating.

THE PINK DINING ROOM

This intimate and formal dining room is extraordinarily special and could perhaps be described as the jewel in the crown. Sitting just off the front entrance and main entrance hall of the House, guests can experience the full impact of Georgian elegance. The room still holds most of the pieces specifically bought for this space by the Earl of Dumfries, much of it Scottish, and is complimented by decorative pieces by Thomas Chippendale. The plaster work alone, all designed by Robert Adam, is a rare and glorious sight to behold. The room is at its very best in the evening with a glowing fire and candle-lit candelabra.

THE WALLED GARDEN PAVILION

This charming building looks as if it has been in place since the beginning of time: in fact it is relatively recent addition to the inside of the Dumfries House's breath-taking and extensive Walled Garden. Finished to the highest standard using many different traditional craft skills and furnished with hand-made limed oak tables and chairs, the Garden Pavilion sits adjacent to the Belvedere which enjoys magnificent views over the entire Walled Garden.

Accommodating from 15 – 200 guests,
Dumfries House offers a stunning backdrop to any business conference

CONFERENCES & MEETINGS

The Pavilion, seating up to 200 guests, with its glass wall and open views of the Dumfries House Estate, presents an elegant yet practical venue for large events. Historic rooms on the principal floor of the House itself however, provide private rooms more suited to smaller conferences. With flexible room layouts including cabaret, theatre, boardroom and informal style seating options and first class IT/AV contractors on hand, the business element of your day is ensured to run smoothly. The in-house catering team can provide all day dining options, guaranteeing a streamlined itinerary. After a stressful day, why not retire to the 5* Dumfries House Lodge, offering luxurious accommodation, just a short walk from the House.

The arrival at the front steps of Dumfries House, past the mazes and fountain, never fails to impress guests, with a warm welcome from the House Butler drawing you in

TRADE SHOWS & TAKEOVERS

The House acts as a classic backdrop to your company branding, with elegant rooms in which to display product ranges, meeting rooms to engage with customers and clients and to deliver presentations, with dining rooms lavishly set to impress your guests. Exclusive use of the House offers total privacy for you and your guests, whilst ensuring an uninterrupted flow throughout the rooms, allowing a range of activities to take place simultaneously.

Re-energise your staff with a team-building day on the Dumfries House Estate

TEAM BUILDING

We can offer private meeting rooms, should a business element be required, or alternatively create a unique itinerary of team-building activities. From outdoor pursuits including an obstacle course and geocaching exercises, to an indoor full-scale climbing wall, your party can be pushed to the limits of their physical ability. Alternatively, why not de-stress with a selection of mindfulness, yoga and meditation classes. For a more culinary edge, mix in a cupcake challenge for budding master chefs or a whisky tasting for the connoisseurs. The challenges can be tailored to your specification and cater for all capabilities. Round off your day with a rustic BBQ or a gala dinner.

ACCOMMODATION

Our luxury, bespoke guest accommodation sits adjacent to one of the main entrances to the estate, some 500m from Dumfries House itself. Originally shown in the Adam plans as the Factor's House, together with a series of farm buildings, a careful restoration and development programme has created a unique quadrangle of 26 en-suite, double guest bedrooms. Each room has been carefully and individually designed to echo features of Dumfries House itself. Whilst each guest room has comfortable seating included, the Lodge also has two charming, country sitting rooms and breakfast room. The Lodge is fully licensed and offers a drinks room service.

Our chefs and front-of-house staff are well versed in delivering high profile events on a daily basis

OUR FOOD

The food we use, prepare and present is key to our success. We have our own highly experienced full-time staff who deliver an astonishing array of culinary wonders. There is a huge emphasis on using locally sourced produce wherever possible and a focus on using food that is seasonal. Of course, we have the luxury of having our own, large vegetable garden on site and much of the produce comes direct from there. From kitchen to table, we aim for the highest of standards no matter the nature of the event.

OTHER ESSENTIAL ASPECTS OF YOUR EVENT

No matter the nature of the event you are organising for your guests, we strongly encourage all of our clients to consider a tour of this magnificent piece of heritage, both House and Estate, as part of your visit. Our experienced guides will make this an informative and enjoyable part of your event. A tour of the House would normally last anything from 45 minutes to an hour. Tours of the estate are normally undertaken by coach and would take somewhere in the region of 1.5 hours. These can be scheduled into your planned event when best suits.

Dumfries House has good road and rail links to the South, with Glasgow only 1 hour's drive away, offering domestic and international air routes. The House has ample car parking facilities for guests on arrival.

To assist in making your event a real success, the Dumfries House Events Team would be delighted to support your staff in the following areas, and more: accommodation booking; airport and rail transfers; itinerary setting; floristry, photography and musical entertainment; and private tours of Dumfries House and Gardens

OUR TEAM

Employing some 300 staff in the UK and overseas, more than two-thirds of all members of staff employed by The Prince's Foundation are based at Dumfries House. Staff work within a range of different departments, including: events and hospitality, catering, gardens and grounds, housekeeping, visitor services and guides, farming, education, outdoor activities, finance, shop assistants, café, and lodge. Combined, our Catering and Events & Hospitality team is the largest department within the organisation. This is a highly skilled department accustomed to delivering high-end events throughout the year. Our staff greet all guests and visitors to the House and Estate in the same way; with respect and great courtesy.
